Dear Mr Scholey,

With COP26 happening at the moment, I am writing to you to ask you to do the following for our school

1. Instead of using disposable plastic cups at lunch I think we should use our own water bottles.
2. We should have plants in our classrooms because they pull in carbon dioxide and are good for our mental health. And we could also learn about the different types of plants.
3. Grow your own vegetable patches for each year to look after.
4. Surrounding our playing fields with wild flowers (like DC has done)
5. A drop in daily mending club. Instead of just binning old broken things, you could mend them instead.
6. Tribe tokens for green behaviour eg growing a plant at home, turning lights off at school.
7. Climate competitions every term. And the class choosing who has been the most green every week.

Yours sincerely

Thomas N
